

For Whom the Bell Curves
By
Ross Altman

Mr. Simon and Benet I wish you would go away
Take your IQ tests with you stay away from my IQ
Let me be all that I can be
I don't need you to limit me or to say what I deserve
Never send to know for whom the bell curves

Mr. Hernstein and Murray, tell me what's your hurry
To put somebody down to say there not college bound
Whether black or brown or white it doesn't matter if you're right or wrong
What master do you serve; never send to know for whom the bell curves

What if Albert Einstein had never gone to school?
Cause he couldn't speak till he was four years old
We'd have never known that  $E=MC^2$  and who's the fool
Who dares to say how genius will unfold

Dr. Jung and Dr. Freud I wish you'd been unemployed
It was your psychiatrist and there psychological tests
Who condemned gays and lesbians to the closet for fifty years
Who labeled them as queers said they're not fit to serve
Never send to know for whom the bell curves
